

Foodcase International proudly presents a new range of next generation ambient meals.

Wageningen, The Netherlands, 6 December 2019: After two years of development Foodcase presents a complete new range of Western and Asian style ready meals based on an authentic and local flavour profile.

From two production sites in Europe and South East Asia our team of product developers worked with local chefs to bring real authentic flavours. All our meals are free from artificial colours, flavours and preservatives.

Foodcase managed to create a selection of meals which meets the latest “ comfort food” trend and reflects a top range of the most internationally preferred dishes for all passengers profiles.

This new concept solution is designed for buy on board and pre-order.

The ambient shelf stable meals can also be used for your complimentary service and return catering due to the economically size packaging format.

Wilbert de Louw, CEO of Foodcase comments: “Our meals are shelf stable which provides a less energy and environmentally friendly supply chain whilst minimizing food wastage and potentially increasing sales revenue from improved stock management.”

The meals are centrally produced in two BRC/IFS certified factories which deliver constant quality and improved food safety and quality. No longer do you have to defrost meals for service, pre-flight preparation is reduced as well as the energy consumption on-board to reheat the meals. Flight cancellations will no longer cause food wastage but transport for return catering is now a more viable and safer option.

This new meal range with 12 options are now available in new specifically designed packaging for optimal on-board oven space.
